

- Acknowledgments p. xiii
- Chapter 1. Introduction to Data Broadcasting p. 1
 - The Growing Need for Data p. 1
 - Traditional data applications p. 2
 - Other data applications p. 3
 - Metadata p. 8
 - The Analog Transport p. 10
 - Enter the Digital Transport p. 11
 - Program and System Information p. 12
 - Infrastructure for Broadcasting Data and Metadata p. 13
 - Overview of This Book p. 13
 - References p. 15
- Chapter 2. Data Broadcast System Overview and Architectures p. 17
 - Introduction p. 17
 - The Basic Broadcast System p. 17
 - Stage 1 Content generation (authoring) p. 18
 - Stage 2 Emission p. 19
 - Stage 3 Transmission p. 23
 - Stage 4 Reception p. 24
 - Data Broadcast Component Details p. 24
 - Data server p. 24
 - Emission multiplexor p. 26
 - Data Broadcast Specific Architectures p. 26
 - The traditional data broadcast model p. 26
 - The asymmetrical (two-way) network model p. 28
 - The content aggregation and distribution model p. 30
 - The local data insertion model p. 31
 - References p. 31
- Chapter 3. MPEG-2 Transport Basics p. 33
 - Brief History of MPEG p. 33
 - The MPEG-2 Standard p. 35
 - Justification and intent of the MPEG-2 standard p. 35
 - MPEG-2 standard overview p. 36
 - MPEG-2 specification layering p. 37
 - The MPEG-2 Program Stream versus the MPEG-2 Transport Stream p. 39
 - MPEG-2 Segmentation, Encapsulation, and Packetization p. 40
 - The MPEG-2 Network Element Hierarchy p. 41
 - The MPEG-2 Network and the MPEG-2 Transport Stream p. 42
 - The MPEG-2 Program p. 42
 - The MPEG-2 Program Element and the data elementary stream p. 44
 - The elementary stream p. 44
 - The MPEG-2 Transport Stream p. 44
 - The MPEG-2 Transport Stream Packet p. 45
 - MPEG-2 Transport Stream packet syntax p. 46

- The MPEG-2 Transport Stream NULL Packet p. 51
- Multiplex Concepts p. 53
- Adaptation_field Details p. 54
- Adaptation_field location and inclusion signaling p. 54
- Adaptation_field syntax p. 55
- Tables and Sections Explained p. 62
- The MPEG-2 Systems' private_section syntax p. 63
- MPEG-2 table_id p. 68
- Section segmentation and encapsulation p. 69
- Section packetization into MPEG-2 Transport Stream packets p. 70
- MPEG-2 Program Specific Information (PSI) p. 75
- The Program Association Table (PAT) p. 76
- Conditional Access Table (CAT) p. 81
- Program Map Table (PMT) p. 84
- MPEG-2 Packetized Elementary Stream (PES) Packets p. 94
- The MPEG-2 PES packet syntax p. 94
- Stream_id p. 95
- MPEG-2 PES packet segmentation, encapsulation, and packetization p. 104
- Stuffing and the MPEG-2 PES packet p. 104
- Descriptor Concepts p. 104
- Descriptor_tags p. 106
- MPEG-2 Digital Storage Media--Command and Control (DSM-CC) Basics p. 108
- The DSM-CC U-N Download Message Format p. 109
- DSM-CC transport requirements p. 110
- The DSMCC_section syntax p. 110
- DSMCC_section segmentation and packetization p. 113
- DSM-CC descriptors p. 113
- Error-Detection Mechanisms (CRCs and Checksums) p. 114
- MPEG-2 private_section CRC_32 p. 115
- MPEG-2 PES Packet CRC p. 115
- DSM-CC 32-bit checksum p. 116
- MPEG-2 Stuffing Mechanisms p. 119
- Stuffing using the adaptation_field p. 119
- MPEG-2 Transport Stream packet stuffing for sections p. 120
- MPEG-2 System Timing p. 122
- Timing model p. 122
- System Time Clock (STC) p. 123
- System clock frequency p. 126
- Program Clock Reference (PCR) p. 126
- Presentation Time Stamp (PTS) p. 127
- Decoding Time Stamp (DTS) p. 127
- Discontinuities (program transitions) p. 128
- Buffer Model p. 129
- Considerations for Private Fields and Ranges p. 129

- References p. 130
- Chapter 4. Receiver Reference Model p. 133
 - Data Broadcast System p. 133
 - Data receiver overview p. 135
 - Data network p. 136
 - Data PSI Decoder p. 137
 - Data Stream Decoder p. 139
 - Display Model p. 141
 - References p. 142
- Chapter 5. Data Categorization p. 143
 - The Basic Data Models p. 143
 - Streams p. 143
 - Files p. 144
 - Groups of files p. 144
 - Network datagrams p. 144
 - User-defined data p. 144
 - Timing Models (Synchronization) p. 144
 - Asynchronous p. 145
 - Synchronized p. 145
 - Synchronous p. 146
 - Mapping Data and Timing Models to ATSC Encapsulations p. 146
 - References p. 149
- Chapter 6. Announcement p. 151
 - Review of Audio/Video Announcements p. 151
 - Video/audio event metadata p. 152
 - Program element and table organization p. 153
 - Data Announcement Facilities p. 156
 - Data event table p. 157
 - Long term service table p. 160
 - Data service descriptor p. 162
 - PID Count Descriptor p. 164
 - Data Service Announcement Scenarios p. 164
 - Standalone data service scenario p. 165
 - Related and coincident data service scenario p. 165
 - Related and not coincident data service scenario p. 166
 - Example p. 166
 - Receiver Acquisition p. 169
 - References p. 170
- Chapter 7. Service Description Framework p. 171
 - Purpose p. 171
 - Motivations for an application signaling framework p. 172
 - Overview p. 172
 - Classification of application signaling data p. 172
 - Carriage in ATSC transport streams p. 173

- Relationship between application signaling, MPEG-2 PSI, and ATSC PSIP p. 176
- Identification of Broadcast and Interactive Network Resources p. 183
- The Association Tag Descriptor p. 184
- The network resource table p. 189
- Scope of the association tag values in the PMT and the NRT p. 201
- Data Service Discovery: The Data Service Table p. 202
- The concept of application p. 202
- The data service table p. 204
- General Acquisition Model p. 224
- Implementation at the Head-End p. 226
- Provisioning of bandwidth for SDF p. 226
- Versioning p. 228
- Example p. 229
- References p. 235
- Chapter 8. DSM-CC Download Protocol Encapsulation p. 237
 - Overview of the DSM-CC Download Protocol p. 237
 - Control messages p. 238
 - Modules p. 238
 - Layering p. 239
 - Download Scenarios p. 241
 - Asynchronous, non-flow controlled download p. 241
 - Cyclic: data carousel p. 242
 - Synchronized, nonstreaming download p. 243
 - Streaming download p. 244
 - Encapsulation Details p. 244
 - MPEG-2 Transport Stream packet header p. 244
 - download_descriptor p. 246
 - transactionId p. 246
 - downloadServerInitiate p. 250
 - downloadInfoIndication message p. 254
 - downloadCancel message p. 260
 - downloadDataBlock message p. 263
 - Descriptors p. 268
 - Practical Details p. 271
 - Segmentation p. 272
 - Packetization p. 273
 - Emission p. 273
 - Examples p. 274
 - Two-layer carousel download scenario p. 275
 - Asynchronous download example p. 288
 - Synchronized download example p. 290
 - References p. 293
- Chapter 9. Multiprotocol Encapsulation Using the DSMCC_addressable_section p. 295
 - Introduction p. 295

- Network Encapsulation and Fragmentation p. 296
- DSMCC_addressable_section Syntax Development History p. 298
- Overview of the DSMCC_addressable_section Syntax p. 299
- Logical Link Control (LLC) protocol p. 301
- deviceld p. 303
- Scrambling control p. 304
- Maximum transmission unit (MTU) p. 306
- Syntax Definition p. 306
- MPEG-2 Transport Stream header syntax p. 306
- DSMCC_addressable_section Syntax p. 308
- MPEG-2 packetization of the DSMCC_addressable_section p. 311
- Signaling p. 312
- stream_type p. 312
- protocol_encapsulation p. 312
- The multiprotocol_encapsulation_descriptor p. 313
- A DSMCC_addressable_section Example p. 315
- References p. 317
- Chapter 10. Asynchronous IP Multicast p. 319
 - Scenario Considerations p. 321
 - Insertion points p. 321
 - Cooperating authors p. 321
 - About SDP p. 322
 - What is the Network? p. 323
 - Organization of the Packet Streams p. 324
 - Encapsulation p. 327
 - Signaling p. 330
 - Multiple taps in a single application of a single virtual channel p. 331
 - Multiple IP multicast services on a single virtual channel p. 334
 - Multiple IP multicast services on multiple virtual channels p. 335
 - Example DST field settings p. 336
 - Additional Signaling p. 337
 - Signaling related virtual channels p. 338
 - Announcement p. 339
 - Descriptors p. 339
 - Standalone service scenario p. 340
 - Related and coincident service scenario p. 342
 - Related and noncoincident service scenario p. 342
 - Related with multiple noncoincident services scenario p. 342
 - Putting It All Together p. 343
 - Receiver Discovery Process p. 345
 - Example Receiver Program p. 346
 - Unresolved Issues p. 347
 - References p. 348
- Chapter 11. Synchronized Streaming Encapsulation p. 349

- Synchronization p. 350
- Encapsulation Details p. 354
- Comments about important syntax elements p. 355
- Practical Considerations p. 360
- Example p. 362
- References p. 367
- Chapter 12. Synchronous Streaming Encapsulation p. 369
 - Encapsulation Details p. 371
 - Comments about important syntax elements p. 378
 - Practical Considerations p. 379
 - Example p. 380
 - References p. 385
- Chapter 13. Synchronized and Synchronous Multiprotocol Encapsulation p. 387
 - Background p. 387
 - Synchronized Multiprotocol Encapsulation p. 388
 - Synchronization p. 388
 - Encapsulation details p. 389
 - Practical considerations p. 397
 - Synchronous Multiprotocol Encapsulation p. 398
 - Encapsulation details p. 399
 - Practical considerations p. 408
 - References p. 409
- Chapter 14. The Data Piping Protocol p. 411
 - Data Piping Segmentation, Encapsulation, and Packetization p. 411
 - Signaling p. 412
 - stream_type p. 412
 - protocol_encapsulation p. 413
 - Data Piping Example p. 413
 - References p. 415
- Chapter 15. Transport System Target Decoder Buffer Models p. 417
 - Purpose p. 417
 - Characterization of data elementary streams p. 418
 - Constant delay model p. 419
 - Buffer model for MPEG-2 system information p. 421
 - Signaling of the ATSC Transport Stream Maximum Bit Rate p. 422
 - Assumptions p. 425
 - Buffer Model for Asynchronous Data Elementary Streams p. 425
 - The model p. 425
 - Buffer operations p. 432
 - Implementation at the head-end p. 435
 - Buffer Model for Synchronous Data Elementary Streams p. 437
 - The model p. 437
 - Buffer operations p. 439
 - Implementation at the head-end p. 442

- Buffer Model for Synchronized Data Elementary Streams p. 443
- The model p. 443
- Buffer operations p. 445
- Data service levels p. 449
- Implementation at the head-end p. 453
- Future extensions p. 454
- References p. 454
- Chapter 16. SMPTE 325M: Flow Control for Opportunistic Data Broadcast p. 455
- Basic Design Considerations p. 457
- SMPTE 325M Flow-Control Standard p. 461
- Intent of the SMPTE 325M standard p. 462
- Explanation of syntax and semantics p. 462
- Implementation recommendations p. 465
- References p. 469
- Chapter 17. Synchronization Issues p. 471
- MPEG Timeline and Synchronization Mechanisms p. 472
- Description of the Tight Synchronization Problem p. 474
- Synchronization Solutions p. 476
- Simple solution p. 476
- Trigger solution p. 479
- Other Issues p. 481
- References p. 482
- Appendix A. Comparison of ATSC to ARIB and DVB p. 483
- ARIB Compared to ATSC p. 485
- Data and timing models p. 485
- Announcement p. 485
- Signaling p. 485
- Encapsulations p. 485
- DVB Compared to ATSC p. 486
- Data and timing models p. 487
- Announcement p. 487
- Signaling p. 488
- Encapsulations p. 488
- References p. 489
- Appendix B. ATSC Conditional Access Basics p. 491
- Conditional Access Essentials p. 492
- High-level end-to-end view of the ATSC conditional access system p. 493
- Terminology p. 494
- Non-enciphered elements p. 495
- MPEG-2 Transport Stream Security Model Overview p. 496
- The key sequence p. 496
- The MPEG-2 Transport Stream contents p. 497
- Entitlement Management Message (EMM) association p. 497
- Entitlement Control Message (ECM) association p. 498

- The MPEG-2 Transport Stream further detailed p. 499
- EMM and ECM delivery rate p. 501
- The ATSC Common Scrambling Standard p. 501
- Recommend Emission Station Architecture p. 501
- Receiver p. 502
- Security module p. 502
- Back channel (return channel) p. 503
- References p. 503
- Appendix C. ATSC Data Broadcast Standard p. 505
- Index p. 599