

- The online imperative
- Researching changing universities Working through the work of making work mobile The campus and the online university
- The online university as timely and accurate information Keeping up standards the virtual university is the university made concrete Customizing industry standards for universities Campus management and the 'self-service' student Reflections and conclusion
- References
- Index