

- 1 Linear Partial Differential Equations of Mixed Type
- Solvability of a Basic Boundary-Value Problem
- Equation of the Elliptic-Hyperbolic Type
- Equation of the Hyperbolic-Elliptic Type
- Equation with a Local Hyperbolic Subdomain
- Other Developments
- The Tricomi Equation
- 2 Flow That Accelerates from Subsonic to Supersonic Velocity in a Channel
- A Uniqueness Theorem
- Solvability of a Nonlinear Perturbation Problem
- The Full-Potential and the Chaplygin Equations
- Finite-Element Solutions
- Unsteady Inviscid Flow
- Finite-Difference Schemes
- Acoustical Oscillations in Transonic Flow
- Nonisentropic Flow
- Flow with a Local Region of Deceleration
- 3 Flow with a Local Supersonic Region
- Particular Smooth Solutions and Shockless Airfoils
- A Modification of the Frankl Problem
- Concepts of the Arising of Shock Waves
- Flow with a Local Supersonic Region over a Porous Boundary
- Flow that Decelerates from Supersonic to Subsonic Velocities
- FE and FE Treatment of Flow with Shock Waves
- Viscous Transonic Flow
- 4 Numerical Simulation of Transonic Flow Patterns
- Formation of Shock Waves in the Local Supersonic Region
- Interaction of a Shock Wave with the Sonic Line
- Off-design Conditions and Flow Control
- Unsteady Transonic Flow
- Other Studies Concerned with a Flow Structure
- Nonunique Numerical Solutions
- Appendix A Boundary-Value Problem with a Damping Condition
- References