

- Introduction Nancy J. Williamson and Clare Beghtol p. 1
- General Bibliographic Systems
- The Future of General Classification Jens-Erik Mai p. 3
- Adapting Dominant Classifications to Particular Contexts Angela Kublik and Virginia Clevette and Dennis Ward and Hope A. Olson p. 13
- Stretching Conceptual Structures in Classifications Across Languages and Cultures Barbara H. Kwasnik and Victoria L. Rubin p. 33
- The Impact of Specificity on the Retrieval Power of a UDC-Based Multilingual Thesaurus Victoria Francu p. 49
- Information Organization in Knowledge Resources
- Knowledge Organization from Libraries to the Web: Strong Demands on the Weakest Side of International Librarianship Maria Ines Cordeiro p. 65
- Expanding Audiences for Education-Related Information and Resources: Classificatory Structures on the World Wide Web Michele Hudon p. 81
- Text Mining and Data Mining in Knowledge Organization and Discovery: The Making of Knowledge-Based Products L. J. Haravu and A. Neelameghan p. 97
- Information Organization to Assist Knowledge Discovery: Case Studies with Non-Bibliographic Databases A. Neelameghan and Hemalata Iyer p. 115
- Linguistics, Terminology, and Natural Language Processing
- Human Language Technology and Its Role in Information Access and Management Widad Mustafa el Hadi p. 131
- Lexical Knowledge Patterns, Semantic Relations, and Language Varieties: Exploring the Possibilities for Refining Information Retrieval in an International Context Lynne Bowker p. 153
- Designing a Common Namespace for Searching Metadata-Enabled Knowledge Repositories: An International Perspective Lynne C. Howarth p. 173
- Knowledge in the World and the World of Knowledge
- The IFF Foundation for Ontological Knowledge Organization Robert E. Kent p. 187
- Perspectives on Managing Knowledge in Organizations Chun Wei Choo p. 205
- Global Abstractions: The Classification of International Economic Data for Bibliographic and Statistical Purposes D. Grant Campbell p. 221
- Index p. 235