

Table of Contents

- List of figures p. viii
- List of tables p. ix
- Preface p. x
- Terminology p. xii
- Book coverage and structure p. xvi
- Acknowledgements p. xviii
- List of acronyms p. xix
- 1 The history of English p. 1
- 1a The origins of the English language p. 3
- 1b The early spread of English around the world p. 7
- 1c Globalization and the rise of the world's lingua franca p. 11
- 1d Representing English speakers p. 15
- 2 Language change and variation p. 28
- 2a Language change and contact p. 30
- 2b Levels of variation p. 34
- 2c Pidgins and Creoles p. 40
- 2d Standard language ideology, ownership, and identity p. 44
- 3 English as a global language: issues and attitudes p. 50
- 3a The advantages of the global spread of English p. 52
- 3b The dark side of the global spread of English: is English a killer language? p. 57
- 3c Linguistic imperialism and the creation of inequalities by the global spread of English p. 60
- 3d The politics of the spread of English: influences on language policy and planning p. 64
- 4 Variation in 'Native' Englishes p. 71
- 4a English language variation in the British Isles p. 73
- 4b English language variation in Canada and the USA p. 79
- 4c English language variation in Australia and New Zealand p. 84
- 4d English language variation in the Caribbean p. 88
- 5 The 'New' Englishes p. 95
- 5a English in South Asia p. 98
- 5b English in South-East Asia p. 103
- 5c English in Africa p. 110
- 5d The status of 'New' Englishes: recognition, invisibility, and acceptability p. 117
- 6 English in global contexts p. 124
- 6a English as a lingua franca in Europe p. 126
- 6b English in East Asia: China, Japan, Taiwan, and South Korea p. 131
- 6c ASEAN in the Expanding Circle p. 136
- 6d ELF in global contexts: prevalence, issues, and attitudes p. 141
- 7 English as a lingua franca p. 147
- 7a A growing research paradigm p. 149
- 7b Understanding and ELF: pragmatics p. 156
- 7c English in the workplace p. 160
- 7d ELF: future directions p. 163

- 8 Attitudes to English varieties and English as a lingua franca p. 173
- 8a The importance of language attitudes and factors influencing attitudes p. 174
- 8b Attitudes: methods and studies investigating attitudes towards native and non-native English p. 178
- 8c Attitude studies related to the pedagogical context of English language teaching p. 183
- 8d Attitudes towards English as a lingua franca p. 186
- 9 English language teaching p. 195
- 9a Striving to become a 'native' English speaker p. 196
- 9b Global Englishes language teaching p. 203
- 9c Studies on attitudes towards English teachers and the influence of Global Englishes instruction p. 209
- 9d Barriers to innovations in English language teaching p. 215
- 10 The future of English as a global language p. 224
- 10a The future of English in a globalized culture p. 226
- 10b The future of English in 'international' education p. 230
- 10c The future of English: spread, recession, or reconceptualization? p. 236
- 10d The future of English: convergence, divergence, or adaptation? p. 241
- Phonetic symbols p. 249
- Glossary p. 251
- References p. 260
- Index p. 280