

Table of contents

- Acknowledgements
- Introduction
- Section 1 The Industrial Legacy
- Chapter 1 Patterns of Industrial Settlement
- Industry Arrives
- Transportation
- Chapter 2 The Emergence of an Industrial Architecture and Aesthetic
- Industrial Buildings--Early Developments
- Industrial Architecture and the Modern Movement
- Industrial Aesthetic and Renovation
- Section 2 Redevelopment--An Overview
- Chapter 3 Project Planning
- Why Industry Left and What it Left Behind
- Public Outreach: Requests for Proposals, Competitions and Other Tool for Public Participation
- Government Initiated Projects
- Developer Initiated Projects
- Community Initiated Projects
- Chapter 4 Public Policy and Urban Evolution
- Urban Evolution, Rezoning and Development Controls
- Retaining Industry
- Art as an Economic Development Engine
- Environmental Regulation
- Sidebar--Tacoma
- Remediation and Landscape Art and Architecture
- Chapter 6 Development Financing Programs
- Tax Credit Programs
- Conservation Easements
- Section 3 Project Types
- Architecture as Advertising
- Museums of Industry
- Adaptive Reuse
- Chapter 5 Environmental Remediation and Development
- Sustainability Issues
- Chapter 7 Cultural Uses
- TIF--Tax Incremental Financing for brownfields
- Chapter 8 Residential, Commercial and Mixed-Use Developments
- Pioneering Projects
- Large Scale Redevelopment
- The Role of Single Purpose Entities or Development Corporations
- Self-Contained Projects
- Chapter 9 Open Space and Parks
- Creating New Parks--An Overview
- Retaining History through Design

- Waterfront Parks
- Hudson River Park
- Afterword
- Bibliography
- Appendix Resources