

Table of Contents

Introduction

Vivian Kao and Julia E. Kiernan

Section I. Teaching

Chapter 1. Gaining STEAM: The Integral Role of Composition in an Increasingly STEM World

Katelynn DeLuca

Chapter 2. Building Socioscientific Trust is a Post-Secondary Obligation: Preparing STEM Students to Communicate and Engage with Public Audiences

Julia E. Kiernan

Chapter 3. STEAM Storytime: Fusing Artistic Expression with Scientific Discourse through Picture Books

Rebekah Fitzsimmons & Tamara Pearson

Chapter 4. Interdisciplinary Collaboration for a New Humanities and a New Engineer

Olivia Burgess & Alina Handorean

Section II. Research and Scholarship

Chapter 5. STEAMing Up Composition: Inquiry-Based Learning and the Non-Traditional Student

Erica Duran & Lauren Mecucci Springer

Chapter 6. Knowledge in the Making: How STEAM can Transform Notions of Expertise

Rolf Norgaard

Chapter 7. Toward a Mindful Application of Gamification

Whitney Hardin

Chapter 8. Familiar Technologies and Learning Principles to Attract and Retain STEM Student Interest in First-Year Writing

John Misak

Chapter 9. Creative Writing Across the Curriculum: Defining and Illustrating a Method for STEM/Humanities Integration

Justin Nicholes

Section III. Writing Program Administration

Chapter 10. "Some of the rooms are occupied by squirrels": Communication and the New Polytechnic

Sarah V. Seeley

Chapter 11. All Aboard: Gaining STEAM in Health Sciences Education

Courtney Watson

Chapter 12. "To Feel, With Amazement, Their Minds": Science, Humanism, Inquiry, and the Rhetorical Work of Wonder

Kara Wittman

Chapter 13. Local Exigencies in a World of Expectations: STEM Writing Programs and the Great Balancing Act

Vivian Kao, Aviva Gordon, Daniel Moyer, & Abir Sleiman